Small Vines Wines: The offshoot of Kathryn and Paul Sloan's Small Vines Viticulture business, Small Vines is about growing vines in rows no wider than a plow horse, harking back to centuries-old tradition and purposefully encouraging lower yields per vine for more complex wines. Their 9-acre organic vineyard is just starting to come into production; three 2010 vintage pinot noirs have just recently been released. If you don't know this producer already, it's time to check them out.
